AUTHORS

XAVIER DENEUX AUTHORS

'I have always like the graphic simplicity which allows you to have strength in the the visual'

Discover the creative and graphic universe of Xavier Deneux. He likes to play with shapes and materials to give children a new reading experience.

Xavier Deneux was born in 1969 in Calvados. After high school, he applied to ESAG (École supérieure d'art graphique) Penninghen and graduated in 1994. He is passionate about Eastern European graphic design and began to work on various books with his thesis supervisor, Roman Cieslewicz. He then gained a great deal of experience in advertising and packaging. His career took a turn in 2000 when he met the founder of Mila Éditions, and illustrated his first picture book, "L'École du cirque". From then on, Xavier Deneux began drawing for children full-time in various sectors, such as the press, publishing, games and cartoons. He started to create his own collections, driven by a desire to innovate. He lives in Paris.

Antoine Dole, aka Mr Tan, is a comic book writer and prolific author. His comics have been published in both books (Bayard, Actes Sud, Casterman, Gallimard BD, Glénat, etc.) and children's magazines ("Le Journal de Mickey", Bayard Presse, Milan Presse). Antoine Dole has also written a number of widely acclaimed and award-winning manga books and novels for teenagers and young adults. He is best known for his outspoken and brazen character, Mortelle Adèle, who he created when he was 14 years old. Through her light-hearted and mischievous adventures, he explores childhood fantasies and the question of norms and differences. Beyond the storylines, Mr Tan therefore shaped Adèle's personality and sketched her very first outlines in his schoolbooks.

'I am infinitely more alive when I am with children than with adults'

Handling the art of derision and burlesque, Edouard Manceau offers texts that know how to speak to children without tackling the problems of everyday life head on.

His books do not function as mirrors of everyday life. But they are very close to what children experience. But it's not dated. His books cross the ages.

Tristan Mory was born in 1981 in Clichy (Hauts-de-Seine). He studied mechanical engineering and then visual communications, but his dream was always to draw – which he had been doing from a young age – and to work with children. A fan of illustration and a children's book collector, he began his career as a graphic designer at Milan Presse: "J'apprends à lire", "Toboggan", "Toupie", "Histoires pour les petits". He gradually became a full-time freelance illustrator and published his first book with Actes Sud Junior, and then, his first picture books published by Milan. He loves pop-ups and enjoys exploring the mechanisms of interactive books, in a popular and timeless style that is constantly evolving. Tristan Mory lives and works in Toulouse.

'For toddlers, I like to imagine the book as a cuddly toy that encourages them to play'

He is one of those artists for whom childhood is there, right at the edge of the eyes. His mischievousness is on his pupils as on those of his characters. Characters who are not afraid of the pull-tabs, the riddles, and even less afraid of appearing a little silly. With a black outline, he invents a thousand stories. With a single colour, he knows how to make them funny. With a simple animation, he brings out the laughter.

Tristan is one of those who you want to see grow up while hoping that they will always keep their childlike soul, which is simply genius.

How are you?
Sometimes I'm OK, sometimes I'm not. Sometimes I feel sad or angry, and get upset and cry. Then, I feel better.
What about you?
We all feel emotions, happy and sad ones that can be seen on our faces.
Can you recognize them?

It's normal to feel upset, cry or get angry. That's life. What matters is making yourself feel better and opening up to others to say, "what about you?"

Whether they're ready, interested or just want to play, little ones will easily relate and discover all the different ways of going to the potty.

This hardcover book proposes a succession of simple little scenes in which the child will be able to recognise himself: going to the potty with his toys, with his books, in pairs, and even arriving too late... After each sequence of two double pages, the child sees the animal through a window and discovers what it is doing: a funny game of hide-and-seek and riddles. Noisy pee, happy pee, pee in a hurry...

The die-cuts on each double-page create a fun guessing game

The humorous approach makes the learning process less serious and more fun.

Claire Zucchelli-Romer
Even as a child, she cut out coloured paper, drew and created stories. She spent her childhood in a family of artists, where she sharpened her eye and stimulated her thirst for discovery. Later, she became a doctor. She creates CYRCREA with Y. Romer and starts to create cartoons and visual art objects. She is passionate about creating books: book-games, book-objects, pop-up sculpture books, book-poems. She believes in the power of books to help people discover the world.

The little beasts seem to be very busy. But what are they up to? On each double page, the reader is amazed to discover a new fabric ribbon.

A fabric ribbon of a different colour (red, orange, yellow, green, blue, purple...), appears on each double page. The ribbons are revealed one by one and combine in a colourful final scene!

The funny narration puts in scene small animals for a first discovery of the colours. Each illustration highlights a main colour and subtly integrates the visible ribbons which in turn form a festive element: a lantern, garlands, a music box or a cake.

"Joue avec moi", the collection that allows parents and children to read together, has been a great success with more than 68,000 copies sold ("Mes petites émotions": 26,000 copies sold, "Bravo, petits doigts!": more than 10,000 copies).

After Qui-suis je?, this is a second attractive pop-up book full of fun to play guessing games.

Who's hiding behind the flower, the umbrella and the hat? Children will find out by pulling the tabs. In each sequence, the child is asked a "guess who" question. To start with, an object is presented: a ball, a flower, a toothbrush... all they have to do is pull the tab to discover who is hiding behind: a mummy turtle, a clown, a tiny mouse, etc. The concept creates a surprise effect and prompts gales of laughter.

This book with surprises invites children to play, stimulating their imagination. On each page, an object and a guessing game in the form of a question. Children operate the moving feature and watch as the object is transformed, revealing the answer.

Square format, robust all-boards production and two types of animation, one is used throughout the book and the other at the end of the story.

What is going on in my head and inside my body?

Xavier Deneux explains in simple words some functions of the body, what it is composed of, how it functions to discover the world around.

The collection deals with complex anatomical and scientific notions, validated by professionals. Xavier Deneux cleverly breaks down intricate concepts to make them comprehensible for toddlers. His highly visual vocabulary is the perfect medium for kids to touch and see. The faculties are approached with simplicity and clarity, to best accompany children in their discovery and know their own resources.

Elements in hollow or in volume emphasize the concepts addressed.

L'odeur que tu respires est constituée de minuscules bulles qui voyagent dans l'air et entrent dans ton nez. Ensuite, cette odeur voyage jusqu'à ton cerveau grâce au nerf olfactif.

The images of Xavier Deneux, symbolic or abstract, bring softness and poetry, and facilitate the understanding of the text.

Chinese (Simplified)

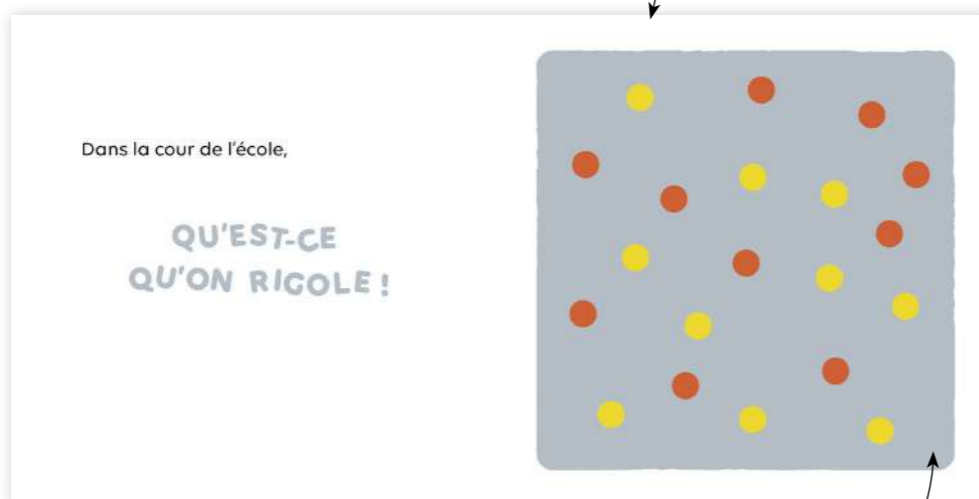

In the schoolyard, we meet, we gather... What a laugh!

Girls and boys pass each other, gather, go round, line up. Throughout the pages, the reader finds all the aspects of the playground, by means of coloured circles symbolising the children.

With its simple graphics (a square schoolyard, characters represented by coloured circles), "Dans la cour de l'école" is an easy and fun book to read with your child. The extremely graphic and richly interpreted images give this book the possibility of becoming a tool for awakening to shapes, colours and abstraction. The graphic approach also allows a more emotional reading of the issues at stake in school.

This is a new, more modern edition aimed at today's children for a timeless and educational picture book! The stereotypical pink and blue colours have been replaced by mixed colours to move away from gender-assigned representations.

A story that takes place in an important place in the school, where social relations are played out: the playground.

Illustrations all in abstraction for kids to engage with roles, shapes and colours in a playful and artistic manner

"Wow, it's been snowing all night", says the badger as he wakes up. Every animal family on the balconies below has lost something. So what's going on at the foot of the building?"

A jubilant narrative built on repetition, with a final effect of surprise, as in Susanne Strasser's albums.

The illustrations are full of funny little details: at the bottom of each scene, you can see an ear, horn, tail, etc. of the neighbour below sticking out. And at the top you can see the upstairs neighbour on his balcony.

Author and illustrator Guillaume Bracquemond, machinist for Nantes, is making his debut in Tourbillon.

A beautiful end-of-year album with a glittery effect on the snow on the cover.

A new album by Emilie Chazerand about the daily life of a family that is always running, seen through the eyes of a little girl.

One day her parents realise that time is running out and that she is growing up fast. What if we took a little time?

A tender look at the race of everyday life, which will speak to all parents who constantly tell their children to hurry up. This book invites us to take a small step back from our frenetic pace, to take the time to watch our children grow up and to enjoy the present moment.

Everyday situations are approached with accuracy and humour by Emilie Chazerand

Tous les matins, mes parents ouvrent les rideaux et le soleil me mord depuis le dehors.

Ils me disent : « Vite, vite ! » et je sais que je vais entendre ces mots, encore et encore.

Sandra De la Prada's illustrations are very expressive and immediately appealing

When everyday life turns into a great adventure... A picture book to make light of difficult mealtimes

Sam doesn't like soup. No matter how hard she tries, she can't eat a single spoonful... She's staring down at her bowl, when suddenly something strange appears. What is it? A hair? Yuck! Sam grabs it and pulls and pulls, before realizing that the strand of hair belongs to... the ferocious ogre who lives at the bottom of her soup bowl! He leaps out and Sam runs away.

This picture book gives the imagination free reign and embarks the reader on a high-speed chase from the kitchen to the bottom of a soup bowl! Lots of tasty characters appear along the way, like her annoying little brother, a terrifying and almost bald ogre, and fish-vegetables living in the soup.

A well-paced and original story

Comme beaucoup de petites filles de son âge, Sam Pâtiche n'aime pas la soupe. Car, dans la soupe, il y a des légumes. (Alors, pourquoi on ne prépare jamais une bonne soupe aux bonbons, avec des morceaux de caramel et des boulettes de chewing-gum?)

La soupe aux légumes, ça a une couleur triste. Et puis ça sent pas bon. Surtout quand il y a des navets. Les navets, c'est vraiment trop bizarre...

Would you like to meet Lololita? She is a cow that folds, a cow that sorts and also a cow that prays! A little masterpiece of humour and intelligence.

Lololita, successively a philosopher, a cheeky person or a poet, informs herself and, above all, gives us her own explosive view on important subjects! How can we not be touched by this cow and the affectionate relationship she has with the two children Ruben and Suzon? Under the poetic, whimsical and philosophical pen of Jo Hoestlandt at the top of her game ("La maitresse d'école" (Les Belles Histoires) sold 36,000 copies).

A promising series which we hope will be followed by many other episodes such as "La vache qui lit" (The reading cow).

A generous collection of 3 episodes for the little ones, but which is also a first reading.

Aurélie Guillerey's beautiful illustrations bring humour and tenderness to the characters. 500,000 copies sold of her collection «Mes premiers livres sonores».

Who knows a child better than his teddy bear?

The favourite animal, the one we take everywhere and tell everything to... So, every year, all the cuddly toys get together to meet Father Christmas and tell him about the ideal dream gift for their little ones. There's Fanfan the elephant, Lapinou who has only one leg left, Toutusé the teddy bear, Juju the turtle, Zigouigoui the mouse and many others. Like every other year, the favourite toys meet up for the long trek to the land of Santa Claus...

A real talent for storytelling that gives life to this band of cuddly toys

Realistic and tender images

A story that is sure to fascinate little ones, who express so much through their cuddly toys

An original version of the famous tale, revisited in the cold, blue hues of Russia's icy plains.

A little girl dressed in blue and nicknamed the "Little Blue Girl" has to cross the wood to bring a jar of honey to her sick grandmother. This story seems familiar to us and we think we know the rest... But this is where the rewriting takes on its full force: it draws on our knowledge to better divert the tale and surprise us! Here, the red coat has become blue, the wafer has been replaced by a balalaika and the wolf has given way to a bear who gives advice and warms the little girl during the night with his fur. And to keep them entertained, a little game awaits the readers at the end of the story, as they can choose their favourite ending from three suggestions.

And, to further surprise readers, a little game awaits them at the end of the story: choose the ending they prefer from among four suggestions, or even invent their own ending and write it in the book.

An album that won the 2015-2016 'Prix des Incorruptibles'!

The compilation, in one beautiful and big volume, of the 3 best-sellers of Ghislaine Roman and Tom Schamp: "The Book of maybe", "The Book of if", "The Book of little why".

An anthology of thoughts of children who embody their vision sometimes daily, sometimes dreamlike, and sometimes unusual ... In this book, children's questions give artists a space of poetry and exceptional invention! Indeed, "maybe bees make honey because they do not know how to make chocolate" and "if the fish could not swim, the sea would be covered with buoys" ... What? Oh? Who knows...

A tribute to children's imagination

Tom Schamp's superb illustrations are the perfect visual expression of Ghislaine Roman's zany, inspired stories

How a lost mitten becomes a shelter for a whole gang of animals and causes a merry rumpus in the woods.

In the middle of winter, it's bitterly cold for the forest dwellers, even for Igor. One day, he goes out to cut wood and he loses his mitten without noticing. But the mitten finds a happy taker: Pretty Mouse, who snuggles up inside to protect herself from the freezing wind. Then tap, tap, Frisky Frog comes to join her, then crick crack, Rapid Rabbit comes in too, then Wily Wolf comes looking for a little place, then boom baboom, Buster Bear comes in too. Pretty Mouse, who has a cold, can't stop herself: ATCHOO! The mitten is blown to pieces. So where can the animals take shelter now?

A new, more visually exciting end for this great classic tale about sharing, solidarity and hospitality

This tale explores the theme of incest and shows how children can rediscover life even after the most dramatic events.

This is the story of a little princess, whose father, the king, hurts her deeply. He thinks he has the right over everything, including his daughter's body and heart... An initiatory tale for children, in the footsteps of "Donkey Skin", proving that princesses are stronger than the madness of kings, and that you can rediscover a love for life after experiencing the trauma of incest.

Serious subject treated by the tale to approach with the youngest children this delicate taboo thematic. At the end of the book, two pages of advice to parents to decrypt the messages of the tale. The work was designed in close collaboration with a psychologist.

Beautiful and poetic illustrations to make the children understand the text

A moving tale about healing from grief and loving life

Once upon a time, was a young girl named Capucine. She lived with her grandmother in a little village, at the foot of the mountains. Her grandmother had taken her in when she was a baby. Capucine called her "Nonna" and loved her like a mother. Nonna taught her to read and write, cut wood and cook... And above all, she taught her how to love. But one day, Nonna got sick. When she dies, Capucine is devastated. And so, begins a difficult journey, full of obstacles, moments of fear and discouragement, but also encounters that gradually help her overcome her grief.

A picture book tackling the subject of grief and how not to suppress it but rather embrace and appreciate the time spent with those who are no longer with us.

This book won the 2023 Chronos Prize.

A poetic tale that explores a theme that unfortunately still exists today: violence towards children.

Yoan, whose father is harsh and unloving, likes to spend time in the forest. He meets a tree there who tells him a secret: a little boy, whose father was also violent, hid drawings inside its trunk. And that little boy is... his dad!

Knowing this secret helps Yoan piece himself back together and choose a different path than anger and violence.

A moving story that explores an unfortunately common phenomenon: abusive parents were often abused as children.

A story to show children that you can start fresh after being treated badly and break the cycle of violence by understanding its origins. Abuse can be physical or psychological. 50,000 children are estimated to be victims of violence in France. This number has risen sharply since the first lockdown.

A new gentle text by Florence Dutruc-Rosset and part of our "Contes qui guérissent" (Healing Tales) collection, hailed by the press.

Après cela, Yoan rendit visite à son arbre tous les jours. Il commençait par l'embrasser en entendant son tronc de ses bras. Il avait l'impression que l'arbre aussi lui faisait un câlin, comme un gentil papa. Puis il caressait ses racines, le titre bien haut vers ses branches, et l'arbre lui donnait de la force. La force de supporter les colères de son père, la force d'arrêter de courir qu'il était mal. La force de grandir...

Rémi Courgeon's new character is a figure of strength and determination. A female-led Western picture book!

"The man who killed you wanted me dead. I was nothing more than a hunting trophy for him. That bullet was meant for me, but it pierced your chest. Now it's my turn to pierce his skin..."

Wearing her horse's skin as a coat, Nuée, a young sidesaddle rider, sets out to look for the murderer, Aaron Blake. Hiding in the undergrowth, listening out for footsteps, she travels the deserts in search of the man who took her friend away. During her journey, she finds a horse and nurses it back to health, rediscovering that same bond. But she will not stop until she has found Aaron Blake. Then, finally, one day... she shoots an arrow and knocks the revolver out of her opponent's hand. She lets him live, preferring horses to humans. "No horse is cruel."

From breathtaking scenery to battle scenes, the cinematographic format plays with light and shadows. Rémi Courgeon plunges the reader into Nuée's quest, in a Western genre. His new heroine, determined and solitary, is reminiscent of Brindille and Adjoa.

A poetic and modern picture book about our need to get closer to nature

Linette has a school assignment: to write about her spirit animal. But she can't think of anything to write about. Linette would rather be a tree. She identifies more with trees, especially lindens. The parallels between the girl and trees run throughout the story. Whether physically or in her way of being, Linette feels like a tree. And although she can't be the animal her teacher wants her to be, she can be the tree that brings all the student-animals in class together.

A beautiful picture book that highlights the human need to be close to nature. A female character who ignores the rules to share her own vision of the world around her.

Candid photos of little ones' everyday lives to help them observe, name and understand the world.

This new collection for children uses real photos to help kids recognize familiar places. The photographs hold up a mirror to little ones' everyday lives and encourage them to talk about their environment, to name objects with a precise vocabulary. As the child is capable of understanding this level of language (all the more so if it is told by a reader with whom they have an emotional bond), it will enrich and build their future vocabulary, turns of phrase and mark out their way of thinking.

Based on Montessorian education movement, this series also tends to make the child more responsible of the book itself in offering a hardcover instead of boardbook: a real tool for parents and teachers who want to engage the child in the autonomy.

The author, Caroline Fabre, is a photographer whose work focuses on childhood and the family. Her shots are tender and spontaneous.

A big interactive book to learn how to identify and understand different animals' emotions.

Joy, anger, surprise, sadness and even empathy... Animals can feel all these things too! But they don't always express these emotions the way you would expect.

This book shows children that most animals, whether vertebrates or mollusks, have feelings! Six simple emotions (joy, sadness, anger, surprise, disgust and fear) are set in parallel with human emotions so that children can better understand how different animals express them.

More than a dozen flaps to lift up, to compare and discover more (with some surprises).
At the end of the book, children can test their knowledge and guess which emotions the animals are feeling.

An informative text written by two doctors in ethology

Accurate and engaging illustrations showcasing a wide range of emotions!

More than a dozen flaps to lift up, to compare, discover, etc.

Plunge into nature thanks to the laser die-cuts in this original book with its poetic story

What goes on at night, or in the early morning, in the nature? With this elegant play on chiaroscuro, we discover the life of the inhabitants, enhanced by the poetic narration.

The delicacy of the die-cuts gives a new dimension to the theme, inviting us to discover the alveolus inside the hive, the spider weaving her web or what goes on in the savannah.

Refined illustrations, quite different from what we usually find in children's books, combining documentary precision and aesthetic qualities.

A big format to enjoy the die-cuts to the full

Stylised drawing, elegant illustrations

Van Gogh, Modigliani's Blue Eyes... Who are the models in these 12 famous paintings? Thanks to a game of face/profile cutting, these women speak in the first person.

At a time when women are daring to speak for themselves, to claim their place, especially in the artistic field, this realistic fictional documentary dares to take a singular approach by giving a voice to the models of 12 famous paintings. Thanks to the profile cut-outs created by Claire Zucchelli, a visual artist, the women models we contemplate in these paintings become those who look at us... and speak to the young reader. Based on extensive documentary research, children's author and art historian Nathalie Dargent uses her talented pen to paint 12 first-person portraits of these famous yet little-known women.

The compilation of volumes 1 and 2 of Philosophy For Teenagers, to familiarise yourself with philosophy questions from secondary school onwards.

Thirty-two questions from teenagers, readers of Okapi magazine, are put to the philosopher Yves Michaud. For each question asked, a debate takes place between the pupils and the philosopher. The philosopher then completes the reflection with a simple text, supported by concrete examples and a focus on famous thinkers.

Themes on life, truth, love, death... likely to interest a wide audience. For each theme, Yves Michaud has chosen one or two striking, often funny quotations written by thinkers, philosophers or writers, which can give a new impetus to thought.

This book gives teenagers a new way of thinking, to question their way of thinking, and to familiarise themselves with philosophy.

A reflection and dialogue orchestrated by teens themselves

Pourquoi le foot féminin en France n'est-il pas encore vraiment pris au sérieux ?

LiLi, 21 ans

1930 : c'est l'année de la première coupe du monde masculine de foot. Les footballeuses devaient, elles, attendre 1991 pour disputer leur première coupe du monde de foot. La coupe du monde mixte, c'est pour quand ?

2022 : une année qui fera date pour le soccer aux États-Unis. Après 40 ans de bataille en justice, l'organisme qui gère le football aux USA s'engage à verser un salaire à leur égal aux équipes nationales masculines et féminines.

Il faut du temps pour que les mentalités et les pratiques changent. Lili l'a bonne nouvelle : les deux ont commencé à évoluer. Aujourd'hui, en France, le football compte 193 000 féminines licenciées sur un total de 1,9 million* de licenciés (joueurs-tes, éducateurs-tes, arbitres, dirigeants-tes). L'équipe de France féminine se situe au 4e rang mondial, et les clubs de l'Olympique lyonnais ou du Paris-Saint-Germain ont d'excellentes joueuses. Elles obtiennent de super résultats devant des tribunes bien remplies... Mais quels efforts, pour gagner cette reconnaissance et ces résultats ?

Lorsqu'il prend sa forme moderne, vers 1850 en Angleterre, le foot – comme tous les sports à l'époque – est considéré comme « une affaire d'hommes ». Quelques équipes féminines se créent cependant en France et en Angleterre autour de 1910... Elles jouent régulièrement et ont du public. Mais en France, en 1932, le championnat de foot féminin est interdit : les femmes seraient trop gracieuses, pas assez musclées, ce sport trop violent... Dans les journaux, les débats sont vifs, mais peu importe : le foot reste l'apanage des hommes. Il faut attendre... 1970 pour que le foot féminin soit reconnu comme une pratique

Je fais du foot depuis toute petite, j'adore ce sport. Une fois, j'ai regardé un match de foot féminin à la télé avec mes cousins, et je les ai entendus dire : "La joueuse a un beau cul", "Elle a l'air si en confiance parce qu'elle n'a pas peur de faire". Je leur ai hurlé dessus ! Comment peuvent-ils être aussi bêtes pour faire tant de remarques sexistes ? L'année, 23 ans was born in 1969 in Vendée, where he grew up in the countryside. He began to work with children when he was 16, and really enjoyed these interactions. He joined the Ecole des Beaux-Arts d'Angers at the age of 22 and graduated with a degree in visual communications. After travelling the world in the 1990s, he began to exhibit his work as a painter. Then he began to write stories for little ones. His first book was published in 1999. He has written more than one hundred children's books, translated in many languages.

Les récentes retransmissions à la télévision de compétitions féminines font petit à petit entrer le football féminin dans notre patrimoine commun. Mais quel temps perdu ! Les États-Unis considèrent depuis longtemps que le « soccer » (nom du football dans ce pays) est « bon pour les filles ». Il y a aujourd'hui plus de 1,7 million de licenciées outre-Atlantique, et les matchs peuvent réunir devant la télé un public aussi nombreux que pour ceux de la NBA, la ligue professionnelle de basket aux États-Unis. Preuve que le foot n'est pas « naturellement » un sport masculin, mais que les préjugés ont la vie dure !

She was born in Canada and currently lives in England. She spent many years designing patterns for stationery (postcards, wrapping paper, etc.). Her fresh, graphic and colorful style lends itself perfectly to children's books.

Rights Sold:

A hardback gamebook with 120 repositionable foam stickers, for a fun discovery of early learning concepts.

Kindergarten opens children up to the world. They learn how to name, describe, observe objects, and become more aware of space and time. This book helps them with all these discoveries, as they use the foam stickers to explore early learning concepts in a playful way. The open-ended questions and "show with your finger" pictograms also help them develop their language (describing, using precise vocabulary). The solutions are given at the end of the book.

Organized in 6 double-page themed spreads: the weather, days of the week, emotions, body parts, numbers and shapes, a creative activity.

Created with the advice of kindergarten teachers.

A sturdy hardback activity book, with 130 foam stickers to stick, remove and stick again

An introduction to Jesus' life and words for little ones, through fifteen stories.

Mon premier évangile groups together the following stories: Christmas, the Wise Men, 12-year-old Jesus at the Temple, the Baptism of Jesus, Jesus calls his first disciples to the Temple, Jesus calms the storm, the parable of the lost sheep, Jesus and Zacchaeus, the parable of the hidden treasure, Jesus and the 10 lepers, the parable of the prodigal son, the parable of the mustard seed, Easter, and Jesus and the pilgrims of Emmaus.

Marie est dans sa maison à Nazareth.
Un ange lui apparaît et il lui dit :
« Je te salue, Marie, Dieu t'a choisie.
Tu vas avoir un enfant et tu l'appelleras 'Jésus'.
Il sera le Fils de Dieu. »
Marie est bouleversée par cette nouvelle ;
elle va donner naissance à un bébé qui vient de Dieu.
Mais elle fait confiance à Dieu, et elle dit à l'ange :
« Oui, que tout arrive pour moi comme tu le dis. »
Puis l'ange s'en va.

A Bible with 3D features throughout, magnified by full-page illustrations and lacy die-cuts.

From the Creation of the Earth to the Resurrection of Christ, this magnificent book highlights the most beautiful episodes in the Bible. The Old and New Testaments are brought to life and enhanced by means of perspective and sparkling colours. As the pages turn, children discover the heroes and spectacular decors of the Bible. A book to read, admire, explore, share, and a perfect gift. All the essential Bible stories are here: the Creation, Adam and Eve, Noah's Ark, the story of Abraham, Moses, Crossing the Red Sea, David and Goliath, Jonah, the Annunciation, the Birth of Jesus, John the Baptist and the first disciples, calming the storm, the miracles (the crippled man and feeding the multitude), the Last Supper, Jesus's death and Resurrection.

A magnificent gift on the occasion of a communion.

IL Y EUT UN SOIR, IL Y EUT UN MATIN...

À l' commencement, Dieu créa le ciel et la terre.
La terre était vide et couverte de nuit.
Le souffle de Dieu planait au-dessus des eaux.
Dieu dit :
— Que soit la lumière !
Et la lumière jaillit. Dieu vit que la lumière était belle.
Il l'appela « jour » et il la sépara de la nuit.
Il y eut un soir, il y eut un matin, ce fut le premier jour.
Dieu dit :
— Que le ciel sépare les eaux d'en bas et les eaux d'en haut !
Et il en fut ainsi. Il y eut un soir, il y eut un matin, ce fut le deuxième jour.
Dieu dit :
— Que les eaux d'en bas se rassemblent, qu'il y ait la terre et qu'il y ait la mer !
Et Dieu vit que c'était beau.
Alors Dieu dit :
— Que les herbes poussent et fleurissent sur la terre, que les arbres poussent et donnent des fruits !
Il y eut un soir, il y eut un matin, ce fut le troisième jour.

A selection of episodes from the New and Old Testaments.

How can Jesus be a life companion to a young child today? "En chemin avec Jésus", a new series for 6-8-year-olds, shows how the values in the Gospels are still topical today.

1. The multiplication of the loaves (the feeding of the 5,000)
 2. Family lunch on Sunday
- 1 page: dialogue between Jesus and the child. To help the young reader see the link between the Gospel story and their own life.
1 page: the child's prayer to Jesus
1 "bonus" page with a poem

The themes in this series evoke emotions and our awareness of the other. A totally new approach, talking about Jesus in terms of his emotions.

New illustrations for a new edition that will help parents find the right words.

Firstly, it lists the things the child can do in relation to the person who has died: ask to see them, write to them and speak to them in their thoughts... It reassures children about the violence of their own feelings, their own fears about death, explaining that life always takes over from mourning...
Secondly, it presents the Christian response to the questions we all ask at such times:
Why did it have to happen to my friend?
Why does God accept that someone dies?
What happens to the dead?
Is there anything after death? Does Paradise exist?
Finally, the book describes the funerary rites and explains their meaning to children: why people give flowers, why incense... What does the sign of the cross mean?

In book shops, this theme is often solicited.

The format of a diary that children will make their own.

First published in 1996, then in a revised format in 2010, this title has sold more than 17.000 copies in the bookshops.

Reference book to prepare adults, parents, teachers... to answer children's first questions in a lively and down-to-earth manner.

Among the world's great religions, there are three that advocate faith in one God: Judaism, Christianity and Islam. They have developed like majestic branches of the same tree. Each has its own rules, its own gestures, its own prayers, its own festivals, which are often difficult to understand. This book contains more than a hundred real questions asked by children about these three great religions. To learn more about one's own religion and to discover the lives of other believers.

A book that invites you to take a beautiful walk through an imaginary museum where you will discover a selection of twenty paintings illustrating the great stories of Greek and Roman mythology.

These stories, invented more than three thousand years ago, present the famous gods, goddesses and other extraordinary characters: The birth of Venus, Pandora's box, Orpheus and Eurydice, The Trojan horse, The works of Hercules, Apollo and Daphne, Ulysses against the Cyclops, The abominable Minotaur, etc. From page to page, the heroes and their extravagant adventures between heaven and earth are illustrated by illustrious painters: Poussin, Velasquez, Cranach, Picasso, Chagall, Ingres, Rubens... The book can be entered in several ways: through the myth or through the painting that tells it. As they read, children will realise that all these myths form one great story.

CE QUE RACONTENT LES MYTHES

La punition de Prométhée

Longtemps, la Terre n'appartint à personne. Mais, un jour, Jupiter demanda au Titan Prométhée, son cousin, d'imaginer une créature qui pourrait s'y installer.

Prométhée prit une boule d'argile, et de ses grosses mains malhabiles il sculpta le premier homme. Mais il le trouva bien fragile. Aussi monta-t-il sur l'Olympe. Entrant dans la forge de Vulcain, le dieu du feu, il lui déroba une flamme. Puis il redescendit sur la Terre et offrit à l'homme le feu divin.

Le soir venu, Jupiter aperçut des flammes qui brillaient sur la Terre.

Il était furieux :

— Si les hommes possèdent le feu, ils vont se prendre pour des dieux. Pour se venger, Jupiter ordonna à Vulcain d'enchaîner Prométhée au sommet d'une montagne du Caucase. Et il envoya un aigle lui dévorer le foie.

Chaque jour, le foie de Prométhée repoussait et, chaque jour, son supplice recommençait.

Bien plus tard, Jupiter offrit une chance à Prométhée :

— Je te délivre si tu me dis comment faire souffrir l'homme.

— Jamais ! s'écria le Titan, qui voulait protéger sa créature.

Et il pensa à la boîte où il avait caché la maladie, le chagrin, la haine et tout ce qui rend l'homme très malheureux. Il espérait que jamais personne ne l'ouvrirait.
