October 2024

EAN: 9791027612598

A beautiful glow-in-the-dark fabric book, to whisper to your little one by nightlight or in the dark, for a gentle moment before bedtime.

What happens at night? The nocturnal animals wake up, the lights turn on in the city, and Baby falls asleep in his room under Daddy's tender gaze.

An original, large-format cloth book: made with glow-in-the-dark ink, it can be read day or night!

With beautiful illustrations by Elsa Fouquier, full of tenderness and softness.

A great success for Tourbillon's large-format cloth books: 40,000 copies sold (4 titles).

In the stars, the sun and the moon play hide-and-seek... and baby takes a poetic stroll through space, thanks to this large animated cloth book that transforms into a playmat.

A unique 2-in-1 concept: a large cloth book that unfolds into a playmat, offering a wide range of activities for baby, including a flap to squeeze, a mirror for self-observation, a teething star to chew on and soft materials to touch.

With this early-learning mat-book, baby sets off to discover sounds, shapes and textures.

Soft, colorful and interactive, it encourages motor and sensory development: baby looks, listens, moves, chews, turns over, touches, crawls...

The latest large-format "Voyage", published last October, sold 15,000 copies sold.

A large format (75 cm x 50 cm when unfolded), a dreamlike theme... This toy book is the ideal birth gift for all babies (with eco-responsible packaging).

Tristan Mory

Born in 1981 in Clichy, initially studied mechanical engineering and visual communication but always had a passion for drawing and children's books. He started his career as a graphic designer at Milan Presse, contributing to various children's magazines, before becoming a full-time freelance illustrator. His first book, Patabulle – Les Pieds sur terre, was published by Actes Sud junior in 2011. He has since illustrated series like Les Pops and books such as Dina dit non and Zoé Zizanie with Milan. A fan of pop-up books, he enjoys creating interactive designs in a style that is both popular and timeless. He lives and works in Toulouse.

With "Fil la chaussette", illustrated by Tristan Mory, babies discover the pleasure of their first stories and shared reading.

Stories, imaginary books, cloth books... "Babille" offers books for babies from birth. Reading becomes a privileged moment of exchange and sharing between baby and adult. The large format allows toddlers to physically immerse themselves in the reading experience. The rhythm of the sentences, the repetitions, the surprising sounds... The text is carefully crafted to allow the child to share a moment of complicity with the adult.

A story full of humor, illustrated by Tristan Mory, author-illustrator of "Cric crac, qui est là?".

Soledad BRAVI

Soledad Bravi (Paris) is a prominent figure in illustration, whether for adults (weekly in «Elle,» the «Les Paresseuses» collection with Marabout, collaborations with Pierre Hermé or the «Colette» store...) or for children (with l'Ecole des loisirs or Gallimard, as well as in dishware, linens, stationery, etc.).

Be fed up with pink... or blue, cry if you feel like it, dance or fight... Here's a funny, cheeky picture book in which babies speak out and rebel for gender equality in early childhood.

20 babies speak out and assert themselves against sexist stereotypes, at a time when 2/3 of women feel they have been raised differently. Soledad Bravi humorously denounces the sexist prejudices to which babies are subjected, and reminds us of their right to develop their full potential. A striking picture book that will make the little ones laugh and the grown-ups think! This project is the result of a partnership between "Picoti" magazine and Crescendo (a network of early childhood and parenting associations) to produce and distribute a guide promoting gender equality from the cradle onwards. Soledad Bravi, a versatile artist with a mischievous sense of line and humor, recognized for her talent. Highly appreciated by the public and professionals alike, she has over 153,000 followers on Instagram and her famous "Livre des bruits" has sold 200,000 copies.

Solid, meticulously-crafted, small-format design to fit babies' little hands.

Hey guys, come and have a look! What's this? It's small and chubby. It's got tiny ears and it's not even hairy... Too weird!

I'm small and chubby. I have no hair. And my ears are rikiki... Who am I?
That's the riddle posed by Tristan Mory in this new animated album with pull-tabs to activate. This time, it's not up to the little reader to answer. He knows full well that the adorable creature in front of his eyes is a baby! It looks just like him. But it's up to the surprise guests, the animals, to guess. As the pages turn, the little reader makes them appear in turn by pressing the pull-tabs. The mouse, the bear, the rabbit, the bird, the pig and the wolf... They all take turns trying to find the right answer.
Once again, Tristan Mory takes up the game of «Who am I?» and renews it with brio. All the ingredients that made his previous titles such a success are here: a simple, clever animation concept, an original graphic style and a tender, humorous message.

A playful and elegant design: a square format, a solid all-cardboard finish well-suited to toddlers from 10 months and many pull-tabs to operate.

Thierry Bedouet

Thierry Bedouet is the illustrator of all the titles in the «Les Minousses» collection and the «Nino Dino» series. Originally a comic book author, he is completely self-taught and transitioned to children's illustration later in his career, eventually dedicating himself fully to it. At Éditions Milan, he has illustrated numerous nursery rhyme books and early learning works. He lives and doodles in Nantes.

An original picture book adapted to the lives of toddlers! This large board book features everyday objects, emotions and daily rituals.

With almost 400 words and concepts, baby discovers his environment, learns to recognize objects and enriches his vocabulary. A book to help baby acquire and express his first words.
In addition to words for everyday use, this picture book lets baby name the emotions and feelings he experiences every day: I'm hungry, I'm happy, I'm a bit scared...
A tender picture book that alternates everyday scenes with a visual dictionary. Children will love the cuddly characters. The large format makes it easy for babies to read the pictures and identify the various elements. It also facilitates immersion in Thierry Bedouet's caring world of soft, colorful illustrations.

Édouard Manceau

Édouard Manceau, born in Vendée in 1969, studied at the Beaux-Arts in Angers and has written around 130 children's books, translated into about twenty languages. His works travel worldwide to reach young readers, and he often visits schools to talk about literature and the importance of reading. Manceau's work has earned him numerous awards, including the Tatoulu Award in 2017, the CLEL BELL Award in the USA in 2016, and the prestigious Sorcière Award in 2015. His creative approach aligns with Picasso's belief: «It takes a lifetime to learn how to draw like a child.»

Romeo is incredible: he sees you, and if you talk to him, he talks back! Édouard Manceau's latest interactive album, with a mirror at the end.

Romeo is a funny, endearing bear with an assertive character who responds to everything you throw at him. But be careful, you've got to be nice to him!

At the end, there's a nice surprise in the form of a mirror so you can see yourself in it.

A board book that brilliantly inaugurates the new label that lives up to its name: "Tout carton tout mignon".

Demanding, solid and beautiful 1st readings for children aged 2 and over. In a large 19X19 format, with attention to every detail. Édouard Manceau has already published "Comment ça va?" (5,500 copies) and "Pouet Pouet" (2,300 copies) for Bayard Éditions, as well as a new "Cache-cache sonore" collection (9,000 copies).

Prisca Le Tandé

After studying Applied Arts, Prisca Le Tandé attended film school and embarked on the exciting journey of animation, where she became a color set designer. She is also, of course, an illustrator for publishing (Frimousse, Fleurus, Larousse, Nathan, among others) and children's magazines, much to her delight... and ours! She lives and works in Paris.

Monsters have invaded the house... Are you ready to bring them out of their hiding place?

A ghost in the attic trunk, a witch in the kitchen cupboard... thanks to a two-way manufacturing system, readers discover that the ghost is actually an old sheet and the witch is a shriveled broom!

And a mirror at the end to reveal the most terrible of monsters: the little reader!

Tender, funny illustrations by Prisca Le Tandé play down the fear of monsters hiding under the bed or behind the curtains.

This is a playful picture book. Give it two eyes, a nose and a mouth, and it'll conjure up a bevy of funny faces! Édouard Manceau's cheerful, inventive and mischievous new book.

A fun way to learn the names of everyday objects. On each double-page spread, the child discovers an object with a head, until the picture book's final flourish: a child's head appears and grimaces at the reader! This picture book is an invitation to play and share a convivial moment of reading. It also pays tribute to children's boundless imagination and sense of humor. The simple, rhythmic text plays on the comedy of repetition. Each time a new funny face appears, the narrator takes offense: "Are you out of your mind?", a recurring gimmick that keeps the little ones laughing more and more. This is a new album by Édouard Manceau, father of "La poule qui roule en boule", whose adventures have sold over 20,000 copies in bookshops.

Anne-Sophie Baumann

After several years as an editor in the educational and children's publishing fields, Anne-Sophie Baumann dedicated herself to writing children's books. She enjoys sharing knowledge to encourage children to question and explore the world and people around them, fostering curiosity, attentiveness, and constant awareness. The format of books particularly interests her. Interactive books, pop-ups, and tunnel books allow her to convey information in a playful and joyful way. Anne-Sophie Baumann lives in the Paris region.

What are those 15 little beasts doing rummaging around the house? With their machines, they steal and transport a curious treasure, from the bedroom to the garden. Open the flaps, and you're ready for a site full of surprises!

An interactive book to search the house and grab the treasures hidden inside: open the toy box, pull up the basket to grab pencils, unfold the flap to load the candy trailer, pull up the garden hose... 30 different animations (flap, pop-up, pull-tab, etc.) and a large final pop-up that unfolds, revealing the incredible hut built by the animals in the garden, in the tradition of "Boîtes à surprises" (7,800 copies sold). As a bonus, each double-page spread includes a game of seek-and-find: can you find the 10 squirrels, the ferret, the mole, the snail and the 2 field mice who are busy playing in every room of the house? The expertise of Anne-Sophie Baumann, author and creator of interactive books, and the tender, lively illustrations of Mylène Rigaudie: a perfect match!

What is going on in my head and inside my body?

Xavier Deneux explains in simple words some functions of the body, what it is composed of, how it functions to discover the world around.

The collection deals with complex anatomical and scientific notions, validated by professionals. Xavier Deneux cleverly breaks down intricate concepts to make them comprehensible for toddlers. His highly visual vocabulary is the perfect medium for kids to touch and see. The faculties are approached with simplicity and clarity, to best accompany children in their discovery and know their own resources.

Elements in hollow or in volume emphasize the concepts addressed.

The images of Xavier Deneux, symbolic or abstract, bring softness and poetry, and facilitate the understanding of the text.

Magali Le Huche

Magali Le Huche was born in Paris in 1979. A graduate of the Ecole Supérieure des Arts Décoratifs de Strasbourg, she works mainly for children's mags and books, for Tourbillon, Actes Sud, Gallimard, Didier jeunesse, Milan and Sarbacane, amongst others. She exhibits regularly and participates in workshops for children. In her books, Magali Le Huche creates cheerful and Non-Non a très faim mais ne sait pas de quoi...

a more legible layout with two typefaces

No-No is back in a fresh new edition!

When No-No goes out, he doesn't know what to choose from his wardrobe... he's got nothing to wear. He rushes to ask his friends' advice for a new outfit. But Bio's bio-pullovers are too scratchy, Grouillette's boots-from-the-ends-of-the-Earth hurt his feet, and with Grocroc's helmet he can't see where he's going...What can he do?

Designed by Magali Le Huche, the author and illustrator who can't be ignored, No-No is an anti-hero, a platypus with inimitable charm. He goes through (existential) crises on a daily basis, surrounded by his friends who try to advise him as best they can (or not).

Humorous albums to read and reread that appeal to children and parents alike!

By the same author-illustrator: the Jean-Michel le caribou series, Non-Non's big brother, published by Actes Sud Junior, 84,000 copies sold (9 volumes), and the Paco series published by Gallimard Jeunesse, 514,000 copies sold (14 books).

DELPHINE RENON

Graphic designer and illustrator, Delphine Renon works in children's publishing and the press. She has illustrated books such as «Tranquille comme Fossile» (Hélium), «Casse-tête au pays des pâquerettes» (Sarbacane), and «La cousine lointaine,» and regularly contributes to Mes premiers J'aime Lire (Bayard Presse). She lives in the Paris region.

This magnificent album captures the quintessence of a child's everyday life.

Through 16 themes (rain, morning, train, summer, city, party...), and 150 little joys to share, this picture book illustrates, in a tender and dynamic way, the situations a child loves. Like an almanac, it can be read and reread throughout the year. Delphine Renon's colored pencil illustrations bring us closer to the child's sensations. Beautifully crafted (thread-edge, heart-shaped bookmark, fine paper, generous pagination) and printed in Europe. Short, humorous sentences that make simple things taste good and make everyday life more enchanting. A favorite for children and parents alike.

Cheerful, tender illustrations

Camille Kohler, also known as Mim, lives in the Paris region. A translator (notably for Benji Davies' «The Storm Whale» trilogy) and children's book author, she also writes radio dramas for France Culture and France Inter (particularly The Exciting Life of Brigitte Tormade, whose theater adaptation won her the Molière Award for Best Comedy in 2020). At Editions Milan, she is the author of the picture book series Nino Dino.

Nathalie Ragondet

Nathalie Ragondet was born in 1988. After four years of training at the Émile-Cohl School of Applied Arts, she began her illustration career with The Rabbit Who Scares the Wolf (Les Classiques, Père Castor - Flammarion) and the board game The Musicians of Bremen (FK Games). She now works in a shared studio in Lyon, alternating between gouache, watercolor, and digital techniques, depending on the project. She particularly enjoys drawing forests and the creatures, real or imagined, that inhabit them. At Milan, she has already illustrated The Vikings in the «Mes p'tites questions» collection.

Winter is here, and no one in the village wants to shelter the little dog. Helped by the wind, he decides to set off in search of a home. A long journey that leads to a beautiful encounter.

A beautiful end-of-year story by Mim and Nathalie Ragondet, about the quest of a little dog who, through the magic of an encounter, finally finds a home to welcome him. The wind, like a real character, will guide this lost dog. A moving and universal story, full of enchantment. An irresistible little dog, sublime winter landscapes, a magical wind... everything for a lovely seasonal story, to be read to warm up. Readers will also be able to decorate their homes for winter, thanks to the 10 window stickers included with the book.

NINO THE TINY DINO

Mim - Thierry Bedouet

Tiny dinosaure, big emotions !

What better way to symbolize all the power of children than a dinosaur? But yes, you know, that terrible feeling all children have of being able to do everything and dominate their little world with cries and NO.

Proud, determined, courageous, energetic, intrepid, a little rebellious, a little grumpy, but also worried and fearful, Nino Dino! A little tyrant –sorry! tyrannosaurus – of 3 years. At the age of feeling all-powerful, Nino Dino confronts the world and others. School start, little brother arrives, big nonsense and bouderies in series... This is going to roar! and do things on his own, but he finds himself facing to difficulties that it must manage.

Émile had a very bad day. And in the evening, his mom doesn't want him to paint. That's the last straw: Émile is so angry that he decides to leave home. A picture book about anger and how to defuse it.

A story about the big outbursts of anger that can overwhelm little ones. A gentle approach to help them manage their emotions. Arguing with a friend, getting scolded by the teacher, getting hurt... there are plenty of reasons to get angry every day. These are situations that fit directly into the everyday lives of every child.

A mirror book in which both child and parent will recognize themselves: the child in Émile's situation, wanting to leave home in a fit of anger; the parent, like Émile's mom, having already faced their child's anger.

Camille Pichon

After high school, he applied to ESAG Penninghen and graduated in 1994. His career took turn in 2000 when he illustrated his first picture book, «L'École du cirque». From then on, Xavier Deneux began drawing for children full-time in various sectors.

The numbers and alphabet are in disorder in these large interactive books. Manipulate the tabs to discover and reconstitute a letter or a number at the center of the picture, preserving the surprise and enhancing the joy of the game!

Camille Pichon's elegant illustrations, full of games, animals, plants, and fruits, are grouped by double-page spreads. Each page features a beautiful illustration of an object or animal whose name begins with the letter or number to be guessed (Jaguar, Orange, Violin...). By manipulating the tabs, the letter or number is reconstituted in the center of the picture. The order is intentionally random to maintain the surprise and enhance the joy of discovery. Camille Pichon, a talented graphic designer and paper engineer, creates a colorful and joyful world, close to that of children.

Kiko

Graphic designer and illustrator for children's publishing, Nicolas Archieri is known by the pseudonym KIKO. He regularly collaborates with Astrapi for Bayard Jeunesse and has created numerous fiction and non-fiction books for Milan, Gallimard, Tourbillon, and Fleurus. He lives in Paris.

A woman, a journey, encounters, in a tale of initiation and origins.

She's a woman walking alone. Soon, whether she likes it or not, animals and humans join her along the way. All different but all equal, what can they bring to each other, and how far will they go together?
Somewhere between a tale of initiation and a legend of origins, this fable set against a Western backdrop is a wonderful invitation to travel and, above all, to accept encounters and differences. Minimalist writing that progresses relentlessly. Sumptuous images, constructed like a beautiful mechanism. A beautiful Italian-style book by a talented author-illustrator (10,000 copies sold for Qui vit où?).
A singular album that puts human beings on the same level as the smallest of animals, reminding us that we are all dependent on each other.

Rémi Courgeon

Rémi Courgeon was born in Choisy-le-Roi, Val-de-Marne. Graduated of the École Estienne, he began his career in advertising and produced illustrated reports for magazines and NGOs. He is also a painter, with several exhibitions in France and abroad. Courgeon is the author and illustrator of numerous picture books. At Éditions Milan, his works include Le Mystère Ferdinand, Passion et Patience, and Ta peau contre la mienne. His book Brindille, recommended by the French Ministry of Education, earned him the Chrétien de Troyes Prize in 2013 and The Best Illustrated Children's Books Award in 2017. His album Blancs comme neige won the Gayant Lecture Prize in 2015, and Tiens-toi droite received the Facile à lire Prize in 2020. He currently lives in Les Lilas, near Paris.

Rémi Courgeon's colorful new picture book focuses on Any, a young artist, and her relationship with her grandfather, a painter in his spare time.

Any is a strong, determined heroine who succeeds in turning her passion into a profession, guided by the love and caring gaze of her grandfather, a zany and endearing character.
The story is told from the point of view of Mat, Any's passionate lover. We follow the girl's evolution through his eyes and his rhythmic words, full of admiration and humor.
Rémi Courgeon's beautifully crafted characters come to life with tenderness and humor. He tells a beautiful story of transmission and passion, featuring endearing characters.
Like Any, Rémi Courgeon drew a banana a day for a year!
The result is an exhibition mounted in Montélimar and due to tour France this year. At the same time, Rémi Courgeon will be taking part in school workshops throughout the year.

More than 50 animations to find out all about the body: how the heart works, what the small intestine does, how the skin heals, what happens when you have an ear infection... a must-have theme in this iconic collection.

Discover how the body works by focusing on: the skin and muscles, the brain, the bones, the lungs and heart, eating and drinking, the eyes, the ears, etc., thanks to a host of animations (wheels, pop-ups, pull tabs, flaps, etc.). Scientific information, reread and corrected by specialists (cardiologist, gynaecologist, general practitioner, etc.) and answers to children's questions (about their minor illnesses) gleaned by the author during workshops.

The bestselling Ultimate Books are all-you-want-to-know essential guides that bring serious fun to learning!

Featuring lots of moveable parts and pop-ups that wow, these books are not just valuable resources, but also fully interactive experiences in which readers pull tabs, lift flaps, and turn wheels to find out more about many nonfiction themes. Each title includes detailed illustrations and thoroughly researched information.

A must-have for any child's library!

From 6 years old
October 2024

EAN: 9791036371158

Six posters that unfold to discover instruments by major families and orchestras.

A visual journey into the incredible world of musical instruments! Each family of instruments (strings, percussion, winds, etc.) is showcased across a double-page spread filled with fascinating tidbits about their history, sound power, creators, and more. Then, it's expanded into a magnificent fold-out section that displays the instruments in full detail.

One part is dedicated to instruments from around the world, and another to unusual instruments: very recent ones (electronic...) or very ancient ones (bone or crystal flutes...), those that work with water (glass harmonica) or wind (aeolian harp), or even carved out of an armadillo shell (charango)... The orchestra is also highlighted with a fold-out featuring three major types of orchestras: symphonic, chamber, and baroque.

The author, Nicolas Laffite, a musicologist, gained recognition through his shows on France Musique, creating podcasts for the Paris Opera, and co-organizing festivals such as Tous en Sons in Marseille.

They're between 9 and 12 years old, and no longer define themselves as children, but not yet as teenagers: welcome to the world of preteens!

Based on the personal accounts of preteens, the book helps them discover their personalities, intimacy and relationships, and provides information and resources to answer their questions. A practical guide in paperback format, 260 pages and 7 thematic chapters: me, my tastes, my body, my family, my friends, my school and the world, with testimonials, info pages, diagrams and comic strips to explain it all. This guide for pre-teens has been entirely reviewed by a pediatrician. A subject embodied by portraits and scenes of life magnificently illustrated by Anne Pomel. Milan already had “Vive les filles!” (16,000 copies sold in 2023) and “Nous, les garçons” (15,000 copies sold). Now it's time for “Nous, les préados”, a documentary guide to accompany all (older) children in their development.

Destins de sorcières - 15 femmes, des esprits libres, des vies meurtries

Fates of Witches - 15 Women,
Free Spirits, Wounded Lives

From 10 years old
October 2024

EAN: 9782408045494

Solène Cornec was born in Morlaix in 1985. A fan of novels and feminism, she grew up immersed in the works of Jane Austen and Marguerite Duras, admiring strong female characters with independent spirits. From her Paris apartment, she works in marketing by day and writes by night. She has been championing feminism for years through her newsletter Bobonne and is currently working on her first novel. Surrounded by women with strong convictions and sharp humor, she is dedicated to giving women and their stories—starting with those of witches—the recognition they deserve, for both present and future generations.

Aline Bureau

After studying graphic design at the École Estienne, Aline Bureau attended the École des Arts Décoratifs in Paris to study engraving. She began her career in illustration working for the press (Libération, Elle, Le Monde) and advertising. In 1996, she shifted her focus to children's illustration and has since been published by Sarbacane, Tourbillon, Le Seuil, Gallimard, Rageot, Nathan, and La Martinière. She often compares her illustrations to daydreams or painted poems. She lives in Paris.

15 stories of women accused of witchcraft between the 14th and 18th centuries, in the Western world. 15 tales of lives shattered at a time when free spirits were feared. A rereading of the past in the light of today's struggles.

From Joan of Arc to the witches of Salem, throughout the Western world: a current theme in feminist struggles. Through true, documented stories that do justice to these free spirits, this book rehabilitates the destiny of these women in the wake of current youth successes. These short stories, with their varied points of view and fatal outcomes, provide food for thought on 15 portraits of women. Readers can reflect on bygone eras; they sound like warnings and challenge the way we look at others.

Robin Lagofun

A 27-year-old illustrator and concept artist from Bordeaux, he has been working independently since September 2019 after completing a master's degree at Lim'Art Bordeaux. Specializing in board games and video games, he has explored a variety of graphic styles, ranging from cartoonish to more realistic, collaborating with different publishers and developers. Meurtre au musée is his first book!

Chloé Blondel

Chloé ventured into game creation through escape rooms, opening one of the first rooms in France in 2013. Gradually, she began designing custom games for cities and museums, and since 2020, she has been publishing a range of investigative board games titled Les enquêtes sous scellés.

A murder has taken place at the museum!
It's up to the reader to solve the case. An immersive investigation based on the principles of murder parties and crime solving games.

A thriller to play and solve, offering a real gaming experience. Readers are in control of their own journey, moving from one page to the next as they investigate. It's up to them to be perceptive and intuitive!
An enriched book where form serves content: numerous facsimiles are present on every page. Readers can flip through files, open pigeonholes and a computer... The book's production contributes to the playful experience.
An immersive atmosphere with visual narration: the highly realistic illustrations set the scene of the investigation like real photographs, and the facsimiles reproduce the style of police documents.
A story, close to investigation games, murder parties and role-playing games, adapted for young players aged 10 and over, by the creator of the "Sous scellés" boxes and a video game illustrator. A title that fits in with the true-crime trend.
